Bloomingburg Juniors Win Title, However

As one fan put it, "WOW." The Good Hope Varsity squad topped the Bloomingburg Bulldogs 60-57 Thursday night in a see-saw battle that wasn't won until the final whistle. The winning tosses were made within the last 55 seconds of play.

Playing in the loser's round of the Fayette County tournament, Wayne High School's Mad Anthonies gave the Bulldogs their second tourney defeat to put them out of play after four straight years of tournament championships.

In the preliminary game of the evening, the Bloomingburg Juniors won the county Junior division championship by beating the Wayne squad 40 to 27.

The Good Hope Varsity victory puts the Mad Anthonies in line for a championship game Saturday night with the Jeffersonville Tigers. If the Mad Anthonies win, it will mean a play-off game between Jeff and Good Hope Monday night.

In the first game Saturday night the Good Hope and Jeffersonville Reserve squads will decide the 1956 Reserve championship.

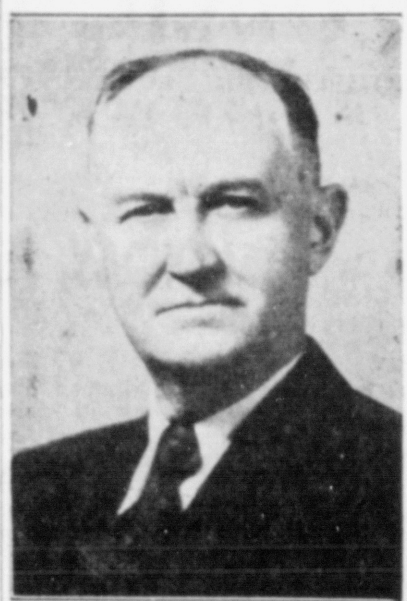

Good Hope was handed one defeat in the double-elimination tourney in the first round of tournament play when Bloomingburg won, 54 to 45.

The Jeff Tigers took the second tourney game, beating Bloomingburg by almost the same score. Bloomingburg beat Good Hope. That game last Saturday night wound up 54-42 for Jeff.

THE THURSDAY night game at the Washington C. H. High School gym saw the Bloomingburg and Good Hope squads tossing the ball.

Oliver S. Nelson Dies in Hospital

Oliver S. Nelson, 81, former state senator, sheriff and well known educator of Fayette County, died in University Hospital in Columbus at 5:55 A. M. Friday. He had been a patient in the hospital since Feb. 9.

Oliver S. Nelson

Mr. Nelson was a native of Vinton County but came to Fayette County at an early age. For a number of years was a well known school teacher in the county, and also a member of the county board of school examiners.

Later he entered politics and served as deputy sheriff for several years under his father, Sheriff Samuel Nelson.

He was then elected sheriff and after several years in that office, which he filled to the satisfaction of the public generally, he was elected superintendent of the Fayette County schools and served with distinction in that capacity for eight years.

It was while he was superintendent of schools that he organized the first centralized schools in the county.

A staunch Republican, he was elected to represent Fayette County in the House of the Ohio General Assembly and also to two terms as state senator from this district.

For a time he was cashier of the Good Hope Bank and later cashier of the Milledgeville Bank, succeeding Estel Smith, deceased.

He remained cashier of the Milledgeville Bank for a number of years, including a few years after the institution was moved to Jeffersonville.

NEGROES DEFY ORDER

Log Lodge Is To Be Built Here By Outdoor Sportsmen's Group

A king-size do-it-yourself project has been undertaken by and for the Fayette County Fish and Game Association to get its lodge on the 11-tract on the banks of Rattlesnake Creek near Buena Vista. The association has leased the site from Cloyd (Fipco) Kyle for a headquarters and outdoor recreation center.

At a special meeting, the members decided: (1) they wanted a lodge made of logs, (2) that they would do the work themselves and (3) that from now on the board of directors should have full authority to carry out the plans.

And, if no unforeseen complications arise, the association will have a lodge for its meetings and a variety of outdoor recreational activities next summer.

At this special meeting, the members agreed that the lodge should be 30 by 50 feet in size and have a poured concrete floor.

The logs can be bought for 50 cents a tree, but the members of this association will have to go down atop Turkey Ridge, just below Salem in Ross County, and not only cut them but get them out and haul them to the headquarters site.

Willard Holdren, the president of the association, and several of the directors went up on Turkey Ridge, which lies between Upper and Lower Twin Creeks, and looked over a stand of sassafras and poplar on the Arthur Johnson land.

They described the whole layout to the members at the meeting and showed them color slides of some log cottages.

The Johnson land adjoins the peach orchard farm of Walter P. Thompson, of the association directors.

The trip to the hills, Holdren said, showed there were plenty of sassafras trees, 8 to 10 inches in diameter and that many of them were good for two, and some three, 8-foot logs.

Plans for the lodge call for standing the sassafras logs on end perpendicularly for the 8-foot walls.

Poplar logs are to be used for the gable ends and the rafters, but, unless the plans are changed, the roof will be of some fireproof composition laid over pine sheeting.

The doors are to be at each end and in one side there is to be a big log-burning fireplace.

The designers admitted they were a bit disappointed that they would have to put a "store" roof on the lodge, but they took consolation in the beamed appearance the poplar rafters will give the interior.

Although it will be weeks before work can be started on the lodge—or even before the logs can be hauled out of the hills—because of the weather, the trees have to be cut within the next couple of weeks before the sap starts running.

The reason for cutting the trees while they are dormant, it was explained, is that oldtimers say that bark will stay on logs almost indefinitely if the trees are cut before the sap starts to run.

When the do-it-yourself project was put up to the members with a call for tree cutters, there were about 20 volunteers for this first phase of the work.

So, plans were made right then for a group to go down to Turkey Ridge Saturday afternoon to mark the trees to be cut. Then the main force of volunteer woodsmen is to leave from the Farm Bureau building at 8:30 o'clock Sunday morning and spend the day in the woods chopping and sawing.

The crew that goes down Saturday get time to cut a few trees, but the bunch that goes down Sunday will do most of it.

It has been estimated that the walls will take at least 200 sassafras logs and the gable ends and rafters between 80 and 100 poplar logs.

Offers of at least five big cross-cut saws, a couple of power saws and a number of axes have been made. But, the woodsmen were advised to get their own axes and saws sharpened and in shape and bring them.

Holdren emphasized that any other volunteer tree cutters would be more than welcome to go along. It's a big job ahead, and plenty of manpower will be needed, he said.

He was serious in saying any other volunteers would be welcome because, he explained, a good many of the members were not at the meeting.

Whether they can get enough trees cut Sunday was conjectural. Thompson volunteered to drag the logs out to the road with his tractor after the trees are felled and the trunks are trimmed and cut into the right lengths. He also said he would see that they are hauled to the site on Rattlesnake Creek and supervise the building.

Hughey Backenstoe has agreed to provide the know-how for building the fireplace if the volunteers will do the work.

Although volunteers are being counted on to do virtually all of the work, there will be some expenses: 50 cents apiece for the trees, sheeting for the roof and the roofing, the concrete floor, plumbing and wiring materials etc.

There is a little more than $3,000 in the treasury, it was brought out at the meeting, but the directors think the lodge can be completed this summer with half that amount of cash.

The money comes mainly from dues (raised to $3 a year this year) and fees (about $1,200 last year) from hunting and fishing licenses. There are more than 300 members in the association now and more keep on joining throughout the year.

On the board of directors headed by Holdren, the president, are Ervin Miller, vice president; Jay Duvall, secretary; Jack Hoskins, assistant secretary; David Roe, treasurer; Lowell Marvin; Ed Wagner; Glenn Hamilton; Walter Thompson; Bill Thompson; Hubert Ferneau; Bob Wolfom and Frank Boylan, the immediate past president.

Walk-To-Work Pilgrimage On In Montgomery

City Bus 'Jim Crow' Rule Protested Anew; Arrests Continuing

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Pledged to a massive campaign of firm but peaceful resistance, Montgomery Negroes started a 24-hour walk-to-work pilgrimage today in renewed protest against segregation on city buses.

The 100 or so among them who were indicted by a grand jury on antiboycott charges were called into court to face arraignment today. A date will be fixed for their trials, perhaps starting the week of March 19.

Eighty-nine defendants have been arrested and other arrests are still to come. The total number indicted was first announced as 115, but some duplication of names was discovered as the warrants were checked.

Shouts of "amen" greeted a minister's suggestion at a mass prayer meeting last night that "not a race-loving Negro" in this historic cradle of the Confederacy would use any form of transportation throughout today.

IT WAS THE Negroes' way of demonstrating that they can walk if necessary to carry on their 11-week-old boycott against Montgomery City Lines buses and the "Jim Crow" segregation required by city and state law.

Chanting hymns, the throng cheered wildly when their leaders pledged an unrelenting fight against what they called "oppression." They chorused agreement when one clergyman spoke of "compassion for those who hate us."

The Rev. Ralph D. Abernathy, pastor of the Negro First Baptist Church where the meeting was held, estimated the crowd at "around 5,000."

A rousing demonstration greeted Rev. Mr. Abernathy and other defendants as they pushed their way through the crowd to enter the church.

Rev. Mr. Abernathy and 23 other ministers were among those indicted by the grand jury Tuesday.

The Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., another defendant, whose home was damaged by a dynamite bomb last month, said the boycott is "bigger than a Negro race revolt. We are seeking to improve the whole of Montgomery not just the Negro Montgomery."

"This is not a conflict between the Negro race and the white race," he added. "It is a conflict between justice and injustice."

REV. MR. Abernathy told the crowd, "We have kept the struggle Christian and nonviolent. We have stressed nonviolence. We do not participate and will have no part in violence."

Shouts of "yes, yes" rang through the church when Rev. Mr. Abernathy vowed that "nothing will change" in the bus boycott despite the grand jury's finding that it is illegal.

Baby-Beating Man Gets Prison Term

LOS ANGELES (AP)—For beating a baby boy so severely he may never recover from brain damage, Roy Burch, 31, must spend 1 to 10 years in prison.

Burch pleaded guilty to felonious assault on the 22-month-old child, Daniel Cox, who suffered facial burns, burns on his body, blacked eyes and head injuries.

The child's mother Mrs. Florence Cox, 18, was sentenced to six months in the county jail on a charge of endangering the life and health of a child. Police said Burch was living with Mrs. Cox when they were arrested Nov. 15.

Most Of Midwest Getting Rainfall

CHICAGO (AP)—Wet and cloudy weather was the outlook for most of the nation today, with a little warming in prospect for much of the mid-continent.

There was a variety of precipitation in the Midwest. Freezing drizzle and freezing rain slicked areas in Minnesota, Iowa and Wisconsin. Showers and thundershowers and hail were reported in Illinois and southern Iowa. Light rain fell in Kentucky, Tennessee, parts of Missouri, Arkansas, Mississippi and Alabama.

Meanderings

By Wash Fayette

Grief can be deep and leave heart-etched scars through many years when unexpected tragedy strikes suddenly, and as in the case here mentioned, removes a husband and father from a happy home, a devoted wife and a little son.

This was recalled to me vividly this week by Mrs. Daryl R. Snyder, who came to our office just before the sixth anniversary of the death of her husband, who while in his country's service as a master sergeant in the U. S. Air Force, was killed in an explosion in the air of a four engine jet bomber near Dayton on February 24, 1950.

In the accident another of the three crewmen in the aircraft at the time, a British Royal Air Force war hero, Wing Commander D. S. Pain, was also killed and a third crewman, Capt. J. L. Armstrong, seriously wounded managed to escape death by a low level parachute jump.

Mrs. Snyder displayed to us a beautiful bronze memorial plaque, sent to her by the Air Force, which had been designed by her dead husband's comrades at the airfield. It is patterned after a large and imposing memorial plaque erected at Wright-Patterson Field. The plaque states:

"In memory of Master Sergeant Daryl R. Snyder, who died Feb. 24, 1950, near Wright-Patterson Air Force Base in the crash of a B-45 Bomber."

"The courage, industry and devotion to duty of this airman were in accordance with the highest traditions of the United States Air Force."

Mrs. Snyder, also exhibited to us a large scrap-book, which she has filled with loving care, with clippings, pictures and other mementos pertaining to her husband's accident.

The scrap-book also contains hundreds of cards and letters of condolence including some from Sgt. Snyder's "buddies" and friends at the airfield, also letters from the government.

All these serve, to some degree, to lighten the heartache of Mrs. Snyder, by recalling the high esteem in which her husband had been held by those who knew him best.

TOKYO (AP)—Japan's population has hit 89,275,529, more than six million persons above the 1950 census, the census bureau says.

Ohio Takes Over 24-Room Mansion

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio today owns a new mansion to be the home of its governors.

Gov. Frank J. Lausche, who probably never will live a single day in it, signed a new acceptance agreement for a 24-room mansion in suburban Bexley.

The big house, built 32 years ago, was a gift from the Rev. Charles U. Harris of Chicago.

Lausche's final approval of the gift gave the State Department of Public Works the go-ahead to proceed with remodeling of the English Tudor mansion, a job expected to take many months and entail a cost of at least $50,000.

Immigrant Boy, 7, Dies Praising U. S.

COLUMBUS (AP)—Seven-year-old Richard P. Zielinski was proud of his new country.

Born in a Russian-operated concentration camp in Poland, the boy would tell of his love for the United States in four languages to anyone who would listen. But most of all, he wrote it in English.

He was struck and killed by a hit-skip motorist last night on U. S. 23, south of nearby Shadeville near where he lived. The boy had just alighted from a bus with his mother. He was an only child.

Torn from his hand by the impact was the last thing he'd ever written in his newest language—a first grade school exercise, printed neatly, saying:

"I love my flag,
"I love colors true,
"Long may it wave,
"Red, White and Blue."

State highway patrolmen apprehended the driver of the car which struck Richard, and identified him as Samuel Handler, 61, of Columbus. He was charged with leaving the scene of an accident.

Balloon Recovered

MOSCOW (AP)—The government newspaper Izvestia said today a wolf-hunting shepherd found a U. S. weather balloon near the border of Outer Mongolia and received an award for his vigilance.

Conservancy Tax Refund Is Reversed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A 1955 Common Pleas Court ruling that Franklin County taxpayers should get a $243,647 refund of taxes collected by the Scioto-Sandusky Conservancy District was reversed today by the Court of Appeals.

The appeals court was made up of three out-of-town judges sitting in the Second District Court of Appeals—Judges Lynn B. Griffith and John C. Nichols of the Seventh District Court and Lehr Fess of the Sixth District Court.

The court, in overruling Judge James E. Kinnison of Jackson County, who originally heard the case on assignment to the Franklin County court, said in its 19-page decision:

"When a taxpayer voluntarily pays taxes without protest and without suing within a year's time, he is deemed to have made a voluntary payment."

The assessment in question was a three-tenths-of-a-mill levy collected by the conservancy district in 1953.

The appellate court cited earlier decisions in conservancy district cases in Highland and Defiance counties.

The money was impounded after collection. The refund would have ranged from three cents to $2,000 each for some 70,000 taxpayers.

Ohio Bell Shows Lush '55 Earnings

CLEVELAND (AP)—Ohio Bell Telephone Co. today reported net income of $30,754,000 for 1955, and Cleveland Law Director Ralph Locher immediately branded the amount as "proof that the rate increase granted the utility last year was unjustified."

"The very thing we warned against has happened. By virtue of the unnecessary rate increase, the telephone customers in Ohio are subsidizing the consumers in other states," Locher declared.

An increase of $7,600,000 in effect in Ohio Bell rates went into effect Jan. 1, 1955. Several Ohio cities battled the rate increase all the way to the Ohio Supreme Court.

Boy Confesses Bizarre Killing

TOMMY WILLIAMS (top) has made a "complete confession" of killing 9-year-old David Powell (left), whose beaten and slashed body was found in the hangout for neighborhood boys near the Williams home in Wheeling, W. Va. The confession, said his lawyer, William Callahan, "completely clears" Tommy's 14-year-old identical twin brother, Joseph Williams (bottom). The twins, indicted for the slaying as the result of blood stains on a pair of their trousers, had maintained their innocence until Tommy suddenly confessed. No reason for the killing was given.

Defeat Predicted For Rigid Support

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Aiken (R-Vt.) said today that "prospects for beating rigid mandatory price supports are good."

As the Senate moved into its third day of debate on a controversial election-year farm bill, Aiken prepared to speak in support of the administration's lower and flexible price support system installed two years ago.

Aiken is senior Republican member of the Senate Agriculture Committee, but is opposing that group's stand on price supports. The committee, by an 8-7 vote, called for scrapping the flexible supports and returning to the higher rigid levels for basic crops which have been in operation most of the time since World War II.

Most of the speeches in the Senate thus far have supported the committee's stand.

SECRETARY of Agriculture Benson referred to the high supports last night as "the unsound farm programs we inherited," and said they are to blame for farmers' present troubles. He said they encouraged overproduction and the accumulation of surpluses.

Benson and Sen. Thomas E. Martin (R-Iowa) appeared on the CBS See It Now television show to reply to what Benson called a "distorted impression of the farm situation" on the TV program Jan. 26. Benson had taken issue particularly with a film showing a farm sale in Iowa.

The secretary conceded that many farm families are in trouble because of high farm costs and low farm prices.

But he said that agriculture is neither "on the rocks" nor "depression-bound." Anyone who says it is, he added, does "not tell the truth."

While the Senate debated the farm bill, its finance committee was expected to give quick approval to a House-passed measure to refund an estimated $60 million a year in federal gas taxes to farmers.

In the accident another of the three crewmen in the aircraft at the time, a British Royal Air Force war hero, Wing Commander D. S. Pain, was also killed and a third crewman, Capt. J. L. Armstrong, seriously wounded managed to escape death by a low level parachute jump.

Mrs. Snyder displayed to us a beautiful bronze memorial plaque, sent to her by the Air Force, which had been designed by her dead husband's comrades at the airfield. It is patterned after a large and imposing memorial plaque erected at Wright-Patterson Field. The plaque states:

"In memory of Master Sergeant Darryl R. Snyder, who died Feb. 24, 1950, near Wright-Patterson Air Force Base in the crash of a B-45 Bomber.

"The courage, industry and devotion to duty of this airman were in accordance with the highest traditions of the United States Air Force."

Mrs. Snyder, also exhibited to us a large scrap-book, which she has filled with loving care, with clippings, pictures and other mementos pertaining to her husband's accident.

The scrap-book also contains hundreds of cards and letters of condolence including some from Sgt. Snyder's "buddies" and friends at the airfield, also letters from the government.

All these serve, to some degree, to lighten the heartache of Mrs. Snyder, by recalling, the high esteem in which her husband had been held by those who knew him best.

Jap Population Up

TOKYO (AP)—Japan's population has hit 89,275,529, more than six million persons above the 1950 census, the census bureau says.

Ohio Takes Over 24-Room Mansion

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio today owns a new mansion to be the home of its governors.

Gov. Frank J. Lausche, who probably never will live a single day in it, signed a new acceptance agreement for a 24-room mansion in suburban Bexley.

The big house, built 32 years ago, was a gift from the Rev. Charles U. Harris of Chicago.

Lausche's final approval of the gift gave the State Department of Public Works the go-ahead to proceed with remodeling of the English Tudor mansion, a job expected to take many months and entail a cost at least $50,000.

Immigrant Boy, 7, Dies Praising U. S.

COLUMBUS (AP)—Seven-year-old Richard P. Zielinski was proud of his new country.

Born in a Russian-operated concentration camp in Poland, the boy would tell of his love for the United States in four languages to anyone who would listen. But most of all, he wrote it in English.

He was struck and killed by a hit-skip motorist last night on U. S. 23, south of nearby Shadeville near where he lived. The boy had just alighted from a bus with his mother. He was an only child.

Torn from his hand by the impact was the last thing he'd ever written in his newest language—a first grade school exercise, printed neatly, saying:

"I love my flag,
"With colors true,
"Long may it wave,
"Red, White and Blue."

State highway patrolmen apprehended the driver of the car which struck Richard, and identified him as Samuel Handler, 64, of Columbus. He was charged with leaving the scene of an accident.

Balloon Recovered

MOSCOW (AP)—The government newspaper Izvestia said today a wolf-hunting shepherd found a U. S. weather balloon near the border of Outer Mongolia and received an award for his vigilance.

Conservancy Tax Refund Is Reversed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A 1955 Common Pleas Court ruling that Franklin County taxpayers should get a $243,647 refund of taxes collected by the Scioto-Sandusky Conservancy District was reversed today by the Court of Appeals.

The appeals court was made up of three out-of-town judges sitting in the Second District Court of Appeals—Judges Lynn B. Griffith and John C. Nichols of the Seventh District Court and Lehr Fess of the Sixth District Court.

The court, in overruling Judge James E. Kinnison of Jackson County, who originally heard the case on assignment to the Franklin County court, said in its 19-page decision:

"When a taxpayer voluntarily pays taxes without protest and without suing within a year's time, he is deemed to have made a voluntary payment."

The assessment in question was a three-tenths-of-a mill levy collected by the conservancy district in 1953.

The appellate court cited earlier decisions in conservancy district cases in Highland and Defiance counties.

The money was impounded after collection. The refund would have ranged from three cents to $2,000 each for some 70,000 taxpayers.

Ohio Bell Shows Lush '55 Earnings

CLEVELAND (AP)—Ohio Bell Telephone Co. today reported net income of $30,754,000 for 1955, and Cleveland Law Director Ralph Locher immediately branded the amount as "proof that the rate increase granted the utility last year was unjustified."

"The very thing we warned against has happened. By virtue of the unnecessary rate increase, the telephone customers in Ohio are subsidizing the consumers in other states," Locher declared.

An increase of $7,600,000 a year in Ohio Bell rates went into effect Jan. 1, 1955. Several Ohio cities battled the rate increase all the way to the Ohio Supreme Court.

Sales Tax Grows In This County

Big Gain Is Shown In State Also

Since July 1, 1955, sales tax receipts in Fayette County up until Feb. 12, totaled $285,592.69 while for the same period starting July 1, 1954, the total was $268,555.60.

For the week ending Feb. 11 sales in this county reached $7,472.59 compared with $6,810.96 for the same week in 1955.

Receipts in Greene, Highland and Pickaway counties for the recent week were above those for the same week a year ago, while in Clinton, Madison and Ross counties the receipts were lower.

In the state the collections during the recent week were $450,000 more than those for the same week last year, or a total of $2,859,669.

The cumulative grand total collections, which include prepaid tax receipts, use tax and other collections since last July 1, when the current fiscal year began, stood at $143,846,639 on February 11, 1956.

The increase for the current fiscal year to date, state Treasurer Roger W. Tracy said, amounts to $20,802,594 in excess of the over-all collections of $123,044,045 reported for the corresponding fiscal year period which ended Feb. 12, 1955.

The percentage gain in cumulative over-all taxes in favor of fiscal 1956 is 16.9 percent, he said.

Margie Hurr, club president, was in charge of the meeting.

Refreshments were served by Ruth Anne Minshall and Ann Dixon.

Mrs. Manford LeMaster, co-advisor and junior advisor Miss Linda Frederick were present at the meeting.

A Scrabble contest followed the meeting.

Marilyn Maddox, secretary, gave a report of the last meeting.

Discussion of money-making projects was started and held over until the next meeting.

Carolyn Limes and Betsy Woodward will give a demonstration at the next meeting.

Your School Report Card

By W. A. SMITH
(City School Superintendent)

In the second grades over the city the children are learning to write. The change-over from manuscript writing to cursive writing is made at the start of the second semester. Research has shown that most children are ready for the transfer sometime during the latter part of the second year.

At Sunnyside, the children were so anxious to start that Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Angus started them on their way after they came back from Christmas vacation. For quite a while they had been slanting their printed letters and every now and then a name was written instead of being printed. Questions could be heard—"When are we going to start to learn to write?"

First, before they could start to write, recognition of the letters of the alphabet is necessary. Most educators feel that the initial help in learning to write should be given in school.

Parents could help a great deal if they were to teach their children to read cursive (longhand) writing, as it is essential that the group learn to read cursive writing from the blackboard and from their papers before beginning to write.

After the letters have been learned, then a few easy words will be written on the board. Next a few easy sentences are written for them, to decipher.

There is a Readiness for Cursive Writing as there is for Reading and the children have been ready for some time. As one child in the room, of Mrs. Angus put it—"Writing is so exciting; I could write all the time."

The first letter taken up is the letter "i" which simply consists of a swing, slide, and a swing up. Before long the children are doing it quite easily. The next letter shown is the letter "n" which is two hills and a swing up. Now the children can see quite readily that they can join the two letters and write the word "in." As the letters are learned, words are written right along, too. They are anxious to learn the letters so they can write a word (different).

A great deal of practice is necessary before the letters are mastered, but it is a wonderful thing to see how interested and willing they are to do so. Of course, they want to write just like Mom and Dad.

Sales Tax Grows In This County

Big Gain Is Shown In State Also

Since July 1, 1955, sales tax receipts in Fayette County up until Feb. 12, totaled $285,592.69 while for the same period starting July 1, 1954, the total was $268,555.60.

For the week ending Feb. 11, sales in this county reached $7,472.59 compared with $6,810.96 for the same week in 1955.

Receipts in Greene, Highland and Pickaway counties for the recent week were above those for the same week a year ago, while in Clinton, Madison and Ross counties the receipts were lower.

In the state the collections during the recent week were $450,000 more than those for the same week last year, or a total of $2,859,669.

The cumulative grand total collections, which include prepaid tax receipts, use tax and other collections since last July 1, when the current fiscal year began, stood at $143,846,639 on February 11, 1956.

The increase for the current fiscal year to date, state Treasurer Roger W. Tracy said, amounts to $20,802,594 in excess of the over-all collections of $123,044,045 reported for the corresponding fiscal year period which ended Feb. 12, 1955.

The percentage gain in cumulative over-all taxes in favor of fiscal 1956 is 16.9 percent, he said.

4-H Club Activities

BUSY HANDS
The Busy Hands 4-H Club members welcomed Linda Hurr as a new member when the club met at the home of advisor Mrs. Charles Hurr.

They will tour the Pennington Bakery at their next meeting, it was decided.

With head scarfs as the current club project, the girls read an article on the proper methods of making scarfs and discussed the article.

Margie Hurr, club president, was in charge of the meeting.

Refreshments were served by Ruth Anne Minshall and Ann Dixon.

Mrs. Manfred LeMaster, co-advisor and junior advisor Miss Linda Frederick were present at the meeting.

A Scrabble contest followed the meeting.

THE PIXIES
A muffin-baking demonstration by Shirley Stevens and Joda Campbell took the spotlight at a meeting of the Pixies 4-H Club.

Shirley Stevens, president of the group, conducted the meeting.

Marilyn Maddox, secretary, gave a report of the last meeting.

Discussion of money-making projects was started and held over until the next meeting.

Carolyn Limes and Betsy Woodyard will give a demonstration at the next meeting.

Carolyn served refreshments at this meeting; Marilyn Maddox will serve as hostess the next time the group meets.

WILSON COUNTRY SISTERS
The Wilson Country Sisters met at the W's School recently to plan a baked goods sale some time this spring.

Shirley Drake was appointed song leader during the course of the meeting, led by President Carol King. Suzanne Torbert and Betsy Vollette gave reports.

The girls worked on sewing following the meeting, with the newer girls receiving instructions in the sewing machine. Leaders Mrs. Frank Dill and Mrs. Richard Rankin did the instructing.

Refreshments were served by Carolyn Dill and Suzanne Torbert. Rosemary Caplinger and Betsy Vollette will serve as hostesses at the next meeting.

Your School Report Card

By W. A. SMITH
(City School Superintendent)

In the second grades over the city the children are learning to write. The change-over from manuscript writing to cursive writing is made at the start of the second semester. Research has shown that most children are ready for the transfer sometime during the latter part of the second year.

At Sunnyside, the children were so anxious to start that Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Angus started them on their way after they came back from Christmas vacation. For quite a while they had been slanting their printed letters and every now and then a name was written instead of being printed. Questions could be heard—"When are we going to start to learn to write?"

First, before they could start to write, recognition of the letters of the alphabet is necessary. Most educators feel that the initial help in learning to write should be given in school.

Parents could help a great deal if they were to teach their children to read cursive (longhand) writing, as it is essential that the group learn to read cursive writing from the blackboard and from their papers before beginning to write.

After the letters have been learned, then a few easy words will be written on the board. Next a few easy sentences are written for them, to decipher.

There is a Readiness for Cursive Writing as there is for Reading and the children have been ready for some time. As one child in the room, of Mrs. Angus put it—"Writing is so exciting; I could write all the time."

The first letter taken up is the letter "i" which simply consists of a swing, slide, and a swing up. Before long the children are doing it quite easily. The next letter shown is the letter "n" which is two hills and a swing up. Now the children can see quite readily that they can join the two letters and write the word "in." As the letters are learned, words are written right along, too. They are anxious to learn the letters so they can write a word (different).

A great deal of practice is necessary before the letters are mastered, but it is a wonderful thing to see how interested and willing they are to do so. Of course, they want to write just like Mom and Dad.

Librarians Say Too Few Read Good Books

It is quite unlikely that most of us realize how few among us are the people who spend time actually reading a good book.

The average person in times like the present appears to have so many calls upon his or her time, so many things to do, that the best intentions about reading clear through a good book of wholesome value, are repeatedly thrust aside.

Also there are newspapers and magazines with plenty of current news and comment which we seem to feel are "musts", but most people could read a valuable book, now and then, not just a juicy novel, if they would set their minds to it.

In the current issue of the American Library Association Bulletin, Author John P. Tunis expresses deep concern over the slackening interest in literature in the United States. "Figures issued not long ago by the Gallup Poll show that only 17 percent of the people in this country were interested enough to read one book within the past 12 months," he writes. "Just think, only one person in six was concerned sufficiently with things of the mind and spirit to pick up a book and stay with it to the end! Sometimes one gets the feeling the only reading Americans do is the racing form."

Perhaps he might have added, books explaining how to fix things about the house and earn money in spare time.

Librarians locally and throughout the nation doubtless share Mr. Tunis' concern. Library circulation totals, especially in fictional and biographical works, are slipping, though demand for nonfiction has helped to retard the downward trend.

This explains the heavy concentration, in library catalogues, (and also in magazine contents and in publishers' listings of books and articles primarily concerned with science—notably psychology—current events, crafts and certain aspects of religion).

Nonetheless as Mr. Tunis indicates people who realize that the ideas developed in the literary arts can be more important, more lasting than the material outpourings of a machine age are still worried by the literary apathy of most Americans.

It is perhaps too easy to blame the flagging interest in novels on television or on the fact that only a few current works are "worth reading." Mr. Tunis believes at the heart of the matter is the present system used in schools today to train youngsters to read. On the other hand a noted business consultant—William J. Reilly—seems to think the educational problem has a long history that Americans generally have never been taught how to read properly.

He has just completed a pamphlet in which he lists five ways "to get more out of the books you read" including a recommendation to concentrate on material being read and a suggestion to underline important ideas and make marginal notes while "they are fresh in your mind."

There are certainly a number of ways one can get more enjoyment from reading. But as Mr. Tunis and Mr. Reilly say the trouble is that for many Americans literary enjoyment has yet to be acquired. One Of Seven Sisters Nasty

By Hal Boyle

GEORGETOWN, Colo., (AP)—On a wintry night two years ago one of "The Seven Sisters" struck Leroy Buckley with a mighty white fist of death, but he escaped alive.

By doing so the 28-year-old Korean veteran has become something of a living legend in this old mining town near famous Loveland Pass, high in the towering Rocky Mountains.

The "Seven Sisters" are seven perilous snowslide areas along the winding road through the pass.

Few persons caught in a major avalanche survive. Leroy is the second member of his family to accomplish the feat.

In 1915 Raymond Buckley, Leroy's uncle, and two other men were caught in an avalanche while inspecting a mine site. The uncle saved himself by clinging to the limb of a tree that withstood the flooding snow. His companions perished.

Leroy and his father, John, own a garage here. Over the years they have rescued hundreds of motorists stranded on the wintry heights.

At dusk on Nov. 24, 1953, Leroy was returning after towing a stranded car over the pass. The Seven Sisters seemed serene in a luminous peace. Then sister No. 6 reached for him without warning.

"I saw a sudden white fluffy cloud before me," Leroy recalled. "And then I couldn't see anything. The glass crashed around me, the front of the cab crumpled."

"Snow filled the cab, choking me. How did I feel? There wasn't time to be afraid. I just gripped the wheel and held on. I wasn't even sure what was happening."

In the vast maelstrom of snow, rocks, and splintered trees the light 1½ ton truck was as helpless as a peanut in a hurricane. It sailed through the air, turning end over end, and landed upright 200 feet below the roadway, then skidded another 100 feet before coming to a halt.

Buckley blindly pawed clear of the imprisoning snow that had kept him from being thrown out side the cab. The truck was nothing but wreckage. The radiator had been smashed in, the wheels and fenders ripped away.

Blood streamed from a deep and terrible gash reaching from young Buckley's cheek around to the back of his neck. He never even noticed it until he climbed back to the highway. A second torrent of snow loosed by another of the Seven Sisters had blocked the road farther down. Leroy had to clamber over it before finding help. A doctor that night took 56 stitches to close his wound.

A medal of St. Christopher, the patron saint of travelers had been torn loose from Leroy's throat. Feeling that St. Christopher had intervened to save his son, Leroy's father decided some months later the medal should be retrieved.

They searched and searched but could not find it. "I thought perhaps if I prayed it would help," said the elder Buckley, who is devout. "So I got to my knees, and as I finished my first 'Hail Mary,' Leroy reached into the snow and said, 'Here it is, dad.'"

The father, stirred emotionally by his memories, looked affectionately at his son. "Whenever he drives by the Seven Sisters now," he said quietly, "he says a silent prayer. Someone saw him up there on the mountain that night and helped him."

Pacifiers May Help In Thumb-Sucking

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

More and more doctors are condoning the use of pacifiers for children.

For years, many medical men have advised against their use on the grounds they may be habit-forming and tend to increase thumb-sucking. But a great number of doctors now disagree.

Sucking Reflex

A sucking reflex is present in all infants. They get their first nourishment by sucking. For many children, it is also a source of pleasure since it helps them to relax.

This urge to suck is usually satisfied with the thumb. By the time a baby reaches the age of three months, his coordination is good enough to make sucking a purposeful act.

If thumb-sucking becomes a habit, as it frequently does, it sometimes continues for several years. Any parent who has tried to break his youngster of this habit knows what a job it is.

Pacifiers Help

Dr. Lohis F. Rittelmeyer, Jr. of the University of Tennessee College of Medicine, suggests that pacifiers can help prevent thumb-sucking.

He cites tests conducted by the college's Family Care Program to support his contention. In only three percent of the cases, did the pacifier fail to prevent thumb-sucking.

One of the chief values the pacifier has as a preventative of thumb-sucking, he says, is that it is seldom difficult to discard.

To Break Habit

While a thumb is always available at the flick of a wrist, a pacifier is not. If the temptation is more than an arm's length away, Dr. Rittelmeyer says, a habit is more easily broken.

Ordinarily, he says, children give up a pacifier voluntarily before the age of 2. Any time after the second birthday, he points out, parents usually can "lose" the pacifier without fearing development of thumb-sucking.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

Cliff-Jumper Saved By Hair

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—A man grabbed his wife by her hair as she slipped over a 300-foot cliff today and held on for five minutes until police arrived to help pull her to safety.

The husband told the officers the 35-year-old woman, yelling hysterically, dashed from their home and tried to jump over the cliff at the entrance to Sydney harbor.

The man got his wife around the waist first, then grabbed her tresses when she began to struggle away.

A lunacy court ordered the woman held for observation. Police withheld the couple's names.

Librarians Say Too Few Read Good Books

It is quite unlikely that most of us realize how few among us are the people who spend time actually reading a good book.

The average person in times like the present appears to have so many calls upon his or her time, so many things to do, that the best intentions about reading clear through a good book of wholesome value, are repeatedly thrust aside.

Also there are newspapers and magazines with plenty of current news and comment which we seem to feel are "musts", but most people could read a valuable book, now and then, not just a juicy novel, if they would set their minds to it.

In the current issue of the American Library Association Bulletin, Author John R. Tunis expresses deep concern over the slackening interest in literature in the United States. "Figures issued not long ago by the Gallup Poll show that only 17 percent of the people in this country were interested enough to read one book within the past 12 months," he writes. "Just think, only one person in six was concerned sufficiently with things of the mind and spirit to pick up a book and stay with it to the end! Sometimes one gets the feeling the only reading Americans do is the racing form."

Perhaps he might have added, books explaining how to fix things about the house and earn money in spare time.

Librarians locally and throughout the nation doubtless share Mr. Tunis' concern. Library circulation totals, especially in fictional and biographical works, are slipping, though demand for nonfiction has helped to retard the downward trend.

This explains the heavy concentration, in library catalogues, (and also in magazine contents and in publishers' listings of books and articles primarily concerned with science—notably psychology—current events, crafts and certain aspects of religion).

Nonetheless as Mr. Tunis indicates people who realize that the ideas developed in the literary arts can be more important, more lasting than the material outpourings of a machine age are still worried by the literary apathy of most Americans.

It is perhaps too easy to blame the flagging interest in novels on television or on the fact that only a few current works are "worth reading." Mr. Tunis believes at the heart of the matter is the present system used in schools today to train youngsters to read. On the other hand a noted business consultant—William J. Reilly—seems to think the educational problem has a long history that Americans generally have never been taught how to read properly.

He has just completed a pamphlet in which he lists five ways "to get more out of the books you read" including a recommendation to concentrate on material being read and a suggestion to underline important ideas and make marginal notes while "they are fresh in your mind."

There are certainly a number of ways one can get more enjoyment from reading. But as Mr. Tunis and Mr. Reilly say the trouble is that for many Americans literary enjoyment has yet to be acquired. It is difficult to blame young people for passing up the great books of history when their parents don't know Goethe from Arthur Godfrey.

SCO Title Game For Lions Tonight

This is it, the night when the Lions cagers of WHS will take the SCO championship or share it with Wilmington's Hurricane.

The outcome of the game between the Lions and the Tigers at Greenfield tonight will tell the story.

The Lions, now in front by a fraction, are the favorites with a season's record of 14 wins and three losses. They have won 10 in a row, including a defeat of the Hurricane which swamped them earlier in the season.

The Tigers, one of the most docile bunches at Greenfield in years, have won only six of 17 games. The Lions mauled them, 60 to 41, when they met the first time this season.

This will be the last game of the schedules for each team.

The Lions and Tigers will go into this final game fresh after long rests from inter-school competition. The Lions have had a 7-day rest and the Tigers one of 10 days.

The Tigers, who have won only one SCO game, are no threat for the title. All a victory in tonight's game could do would be throw the Lions into a tie for the crown with the Wilmington. The Tigers' only SCO victory was a 57-51 conquest of Circleville's Tigers.

The Hurricane, which has completed its schedule, wound up the season with 11 wins in 16 games. Its only SCO defeats were at the hands of Circleville's Tigers and the Lions of WHS.

The Only loss of the Lions was to the Hurricane. Hillsboro's Indians will play their last scheduled game of the season tonight at Fairview and Circleville's Tigers will wind up their schedule entertaining the basketballers from Logan.

With the schedules completed, all the teams get ready for the tournaments. The Lions will start play at the Coliseum in Columbus; drawings for the tournament are slated to be made in Columbus about noon Saturday.

Gym Teacher Sued For 'Beating' Boy

CLEVELAND (AP)—A North Olmsted father has sued a junior high school gym teacher for $50,000, charging an unprovoked beating was given his 13-year-old son at the school a week ago.

The teacher, Allan Cherney, said of the suit which Chandley Lambert filed yesterday on behalf of his son, Terry: "The boy is definitely wrong. I shook him up as a disciplinary measure, but I certainly did not hit him."

Victims Improve After Accidents

Blast Investigation Is Continuing Here

Two accident victims hospitalized here are "showing improvement," according to reports from medical authorities at Fayette Memorial Hospital.

They are Paul Slagle, 38, who suffered second and third degree burns when a gas explosion ripped his home at 426 East Market Street here, and Paula Turnpseed, 17, who suffered crushed hip bones and internal injuries when she was struck by an auto which had gone out of control after a collision with a truck.

The two accidents occurred on successive days, Miss Turnpseed's on Feb. 11 and Slagle's on Feb. 12. Hospital authorities listed the condition of each as "satisfactory" on Friday.

Meanwhile, representatives of both the Washington C. H. and Dayton offices of the Dayton Power and Light Co. are continuing to press investigation of the mysterious gas blast at Slagle's home.

REPRESENTATIVES of the city fire department and of both Slagle's and DP&L's insurance companies have also been trying to track down the source of the gas. But the explosion, which smashed two walls out of the brick house and burned Slagle's upper body, hands, arms and face, is still unexplained.

So far, none of the investigators has reported a clue as to the source or even the nature of the gas.

They are reportedly checking the possibility that the gas may have been natural gas, the kind supplied by DP&L, or sewer gas or gasoline fumes seeping into the house through a defective sewer trap.

"We don't know what it was yet," said George Finley, superintendent of the DP&L gas department. "We're still investigating, naturally."

Fire Chief George Hall reported that his department had completed its investigation of the explosion early this week.

"We found nothing," Hall said. "Until we hear from Dayton Power and Light, we have to list the cause as 'undetermined.'"

Richard Willis, with whose agency Slagle's home was insured, said Thursday, "We're still working. We don't have anything definite yet."

POLICE HAVE completed their investigation of the accident in which Miss Turnpseed was injured.

No charges will be brought against either the driver of the truck or the car involved, according to Police Chief Vaiden Long, because "the police didn't see it and there were no witnesses who could tell us exactly what happened."

Miss Turnpseed was injured while crossing Court Street at the intersection of Main Street.

A car driven by Cicero C. Chamberlain, 70, of Route 2, struck her after a collision with a truck driven by Royce C. Harmon, 29, of Louisville, Ky.

The truck was headed west on Court Street and the car south on Main Street.

Two additional factors made it impossible for police to fix responsibility in the accident:

(1) The car and the rear end of the truck collided;

(2) The truck driver told police he had entered the intersection when the light was amber, while Chamberlain said he waited for the light to turn from red to amber, waited a short time and started on.

Chief Long said, "We just have not got enough to go on to place the blame. If any action (for damages, hospital and doctor bills) it would have to be brought by Miss Turnpseed or someone acting in her behalf."

Chillicothe Auto Is Abandoned Here

A Ford car stolen in Chillicothe, was found abandoned in an alley between Hickory and Henkle Streets here Thursday and reported to the police, who contacted the Chillicothe officers.

Police were asked to hold the car for fingerprints, which was done.

Canvass Sunday For Heart Fund

Over 200 Workers Will Solicit Here

A killer is at large in Fayette County.

Name: heart disease. Last seen: everywhere.

Here, as across the nation, heart and blood vessel diseases account for more than half of all deaths.

Fayette Countians will have their chance to help stop this killer on Sunday, when more than 200 volunteers will conduct a door-to-door canvass for the Heart Fund.

Each worker will carry a copy of collection envelopes, announced Miss Marian Moore, fund drive chairman.

"It isn't at all necessary to tell the worker how much you are contributing unless you want a receipt for income tax purposes," Miss Moore said.

She emphasized that the contributor alone is to determine the amount of his gift to the fund.

Three quarters of the money collected here on Heart Sunday drive will be used to help the Central Ohio Heart Association in its fight on heart disease here in Fayette County and across the state.

The other 25 percent of the proceeds will go to the American Heart Association to implement the national program.

THE OBJECTIVES of the heart associations, county, state and national, are threefold: to support research, education and community heart projects.

Research has received more than $12,000,000 from the Heart Fund over the past seven years. Chief research objective is discovery of the basic causes of rheumatic fever, high blood pressure and hardening of the arteries.

Education is aimed at two goals: to keep physicians and related professional groups abreast of the latest developments in the field, and to help the public to understand the problem, encouraging early diagnosis and treatment.

Community service programs are designed "to guard healthy hearts

and to enable heart sufferers to continue as productive members of society."

Researchers and physicians working with the Heart Association offer five key facts about heart disease:

- (1) Some forms of heart disease can be prevented, a few cured.
- (2) All heart cases can be cared for best if diagnosed early.
- (3) Almost every heart condition can be helped by proper treatment.
- (4) Most heart patients can keep on working — often at the same job.
- (5) Your "symptom" may not mean heart disease. Don't guess. See your doctor and be sure.

Final Rites Held For John A. Dick

Funeral services for John A. Dick were held 2 P. M. Thursday at the Alvin G. Little Funeral Home in Jeffersonville with Rev. Glenn Williams of the House of Prayer, in Sabina conducting services.

Rev. Williams offered prayer, read from the Scriptures and delivered a sermon. Mrs. Ruby Reinhardt and Miss Mary Anders sang two hymns, "Good Night and Good Morning" and "Beyond the Sunset."

Pallbearers were C. W. Briggs, A. E. Kemp, Charles Funk and Lawrence Schafer.

Burial was in the Fairview Cemetery in Jeffersonville.

Three Fayette Students Are On The Honor Roll

Three Fayette County students enrolled in Wilmington College made honor grades during the first semester. To reach the honor grade the student must have a scholastic average of A or B.

The Fayette students were Beverly Baughn of Jeffersonville, in the 3.99 to 3.75 category; Kemp Allemand of Washington C. H., 3.74 to 3.50; and Grace Maury of Washington C. H., 3.49 to 3.25.

The two accidents occurred on successive days. Miss Turnpseed's on Feb. 11 and Slagle's on Feb. 12. Hospital authorities listed the condition of each as "satisfactory" on Friday.

Meanwhile, representatives of both the Washington C. H. and Dayton offices of the Dayton Power and Light Co. are continuing to press investigation of the mysterious gas blast at Slagle's home.

REPRESENTATIVES of the city fire department and of both Slagle's and DP&L's insurance companies have also been trying to track down the source of the gas. But the explosion, which smashed two walls out of the brick house and burned Slagle's upper body, hands, arms and face, is still unexplained.

So far, none of the investigators has reported a clue as to the source or even the nature of the gas.

They are reportedly checking the possibility that the gas may have been natural gas, the kind supplied by DP&L, or sewer gas or gasoline fumes seeping into the house through a defective sewer trap.

"We don't know what it was yet," said George Finley, superintendent of the DP&L gas department. "We're still investigating, naturally."

Fire Chief George Hall reported that his department had completed its investigation of the explosion early this week.

"We found nothing," Hall said. "Until we hear from Dayton Power and Light, we have to list the cause as 'undetermined.'"

Richard Willis, with whose agency Slagle's home was insured, said Thursday, "We're still working. We don't have anything definite yet."

POLICE HAVE completed their investigation of the accident in which Miss Turnpseed was injured.

No charges will be brought against either the driver of the truck or the car involved, according to Police Chief Vaiden Long, because "the police didn't see it and there were no witnesses who could tell us exactly what happened."

Miss Turnpseed was injured while crossing Court Street at the intersection of Main Street.

A car driven by Cicero C. Chamberlain, 70, of Route 2, struck her after a collision with a truck driven by Royce C. Harmon, 29, of Louisville, Ky.

The truck was headed west on Court Street and the car south on Main Street.

Two additional factors made it impossible for police to fix responsibility in the accident:

(1) The car and the rear end of the truck collided;

(2) The truck driver told police he had entered the intersection when the light was amber, while Chamberlain said he waited for the light to turn from red to amber, waited a short time and started on.

Chief Long said, "We just have not got enough to go on to place the blame. If any action (for damages, hospital and doctor bills) it would have to be brought by Miss Turnpseed or someone acting in her behalf."

Canvass Sunday For Heart Fund

Over 200 Workers Will Solicit Here

A killer is at large in Fayette County.

Name: heart disease. Last seen: everywhere.

Here, as across the nation, heart and blood vessel diseases account for more than half of all deaths.

Fayette Countians will have their chance to help stop this killer on Sunday, when more than 200 volunteers will conduct a door-to-door canvass for the Heart Fund.

Each worker will carry a copy of collection envelopes, announced Miss Marian Moore, fund drive chairman.

"It isn't at all necessary to tell the worker how much you are contributing unless you want a receipt for income tax purposes," Miss Moore said.

She emphasized that the contributor alone is to determine the amount of his gift to the fund.

Three quarters of the money collected here on Heart Sunday drive will be used to help the Central Ohio Heart Association in its fight on heart disease here in Fayette County and across the state.

The other 25 percent of the proceeds will go to the American Heart Association to implement the national program.

THE OBJECTIVES of the heart associations, county, state and national, are threefold: to support research, education and community heart projects.

Research has received more than $13,000,000 from the Heart Fund over the past seven years. Chief research objective is discovery of the basic causes of rheumatic fever, high blood pressure and hardening of the arteries.

Education is aimed at two goals: to keep physicians and related professional groups abreast of the latest developments in the field, and to help the public to understand the problem, encouraging early diagnosis and treatment.

Community service programs are designed "to guard healthy hearts

and to enable heart sufferers to continue as productive members of society."

Researchers and physicians working with the Heart Association offer five key facts about heart disease:

- (1) Some forms of heart disease can be prevented, a few cured.
- (2) All heart cases can be cared for best if diagnosed early.
- (3) Almost every heart condition can be helped by proper treatment.
- (4) Most heart patients can keep on working — often at the same job.
- (5) Your "symptom" may not mean heart disease. Don't guess. See your doctor and be sure.
